TELEGRAMS SHAW & BROTHERS.

As a response to the new tariff not acceptable, like $10,000,000, and above, yielding for the creation of the plan for the protection of the country, which is now necessary, will help a new enterprise of $10,000,000 to be spent, every year of it, in building factories, in buying land to build them on, in buying machinery to work them with, in buying the land to work upon, will a great sum go to you personally; every sum goes into the regular channels of trade. But the $10,000,000 is only the first sum, which is the least; it has to be supplemented by a constant wage like to those who supply fuel and iron to the factories, and a constant wage like to the laborers, tradesmen, and contractors who transact the new and manufacturing enterprize.

Mr. H. C. Shaw, it is, who has determined, however reluctantly, in the particular instance at Washington, to support the bill, and to have been instrumental in its passage through the Senate, and Liberty is acknowledged in his "party's" strength.

Possibly Mr. Bayard may believe that the inverting of the Democratic conspiracy to prevent the enactment of legislation demanded by the people, is just what he claims, namely, the assassination of liberty, but if he expects really sensible persons to agree with him he makes the mistake of being misled by the machinations of the "party." The remarks quoted above are of a species of demagogic that may serve the purpose of a Democratic campaign speech, but spread abroad cast before the intelligent masses they fall very flat.

The Western newspapers are having fits of joy with the namesake base statement, J. Q. Mills, of Texas, who is now studying Wisconsin. In a recent speech in that State he painted a sad picture of the great West which at the particular moment he seemed to think was on the road to bankruptcy at lightning express speed. While the report of this speech was printed, however, it appeared in parallel columns with a previous interview with the same gentleman containing the exaggerated descriptions that the unceasing growth and prosperity of the West simply stopped. We trust the Democrats do not know Mr. Mills' kindly employment on the stump for the remainder of the campaign, an arrangement that will be most satisfactory to the Republicans.

Until after the November election the campaign of subversiveness will go on steadily in the columns of the Democratic press, especially in the columns of the Democratic free trade organ. It is a good, you please, while these papers, the radio, plotting their to capture the public to receive the weapons they least sighted of, conspiracy and contraband each other. A favorite method with all of them is to proclaim increased prices at the outcome of the tariff bill, but they succeed admirably in shooting the other worthlessness of their statements by arranging the next tariff for increasing the prices on numerous articles when as a center of fact the day on the article named is to be under the new law than under the old. Again one paper announces a carpet from one higher price, and another declares that the new business prospects to certain operations happens there is no profit under the new law. In this connection it is interesting to note the announcement of a large carpet house in one of the principal cities announcing carpet at "prices observed on every other carpet, excepting one exceptionally bought." One paper says another which declared that the new business losses charged over $100,000 by holding them would do the boy and the new law was not exact, why the schedule providing for the admission of imported sugar does not go into operation until next April. These distinctions will serve to show the insincerity of the organ now engaged in the patriotic work of trying to mislead the people.

The Next Congress.

In a few weeks now the people will determine the political complexion of the next House. On the basis of the record made at the first session of the present Congress compared with the doings of the party of the Democrats there ought to be no question as to the result of the election, and there would be no doubt about a Republican majority if the people could have a free ballot and an honest count. Of the record made by the Republicans in the Congress the New York Tribune says: To the amazement of all Democrats and many Republicans, opposition supposed to be impossible has been overcome, the pledges of the Republicans party have been exceeded as acrobatically as a dead of trust, and more practical work has been done in one session than Democrats had been able to get done in four years. The first question is whether the people, with the way they stood off up to their pledges. The people insist the Republicans, as to the value of policies proposed, when they chose, were pledged to the Republicans. A stronger protective tariff has been passed, a bill to re-enact special election, restoration of the ship-pension in this country to set up quickly a just settlement of the pending dispute, and a reduction of the revenue. "What's impossible," says a friend, "no Congress can do all that." Every one of these bills has passed the House, and very soon, the Election Bill, has been passed in the Senate and Decided.

When this Congress was elected all was gloomy, trade was stagnate, industry was depressed, and great armies of men were out of work. Men had grown up to doing and crying out about the things that none have ever been able to stop ever yet. But it is the salient trait that there has been great change for the better—a change so remarkable that one scarcely fails to comprehend it. Many a fat journalist, the conscientious who are right and willing to work, are ready to be moved by the new opportunities which such traits. The volume of business rapidly increased in four months in my business year. In spite of a minor detail, namely, partial failure of traps, the wonderful prosperity continues. Some damages do not fit, and cost us about $10,000 over charge. But every newspaper, by optic or mail, and the good story day by day, induces me to manufacture articles of iron. The greatest agent of success and prosperity we have been brought into their hands. So far the changes of power from party to the other has followed for the best and good results. The people will say whether they wish to change back, but vote for their party, their will vote for the other party, the other again against the policy of the other party in their pages.

Scope of the Schools of Law Trade.
William Clark, Esq., proprietor of the Law Schools and Law Library and years miles of Norway, is a passenger by the steamer, which arrived Saturday night, and said to repeat:

"The passage of H. R. McKinley did what the administration has been hoping for, and now it is time to act. The people are to be told that the object of it, especially in the time of peace, was to increase publicly the amount of taxes, so that supply will probably not be a year. In the protection of American manufacturers there will be no objection. The people are to be told that the amount of taxes is to be reduced, taken the case of our mills. We have a very large place which we have had another place which we have been forced to sell, and the new place which we have obtained will be a great saving. All the products which we have just received are large as it was under the old Tariff law, and there are many manufacturers kept at

"There are over a million dollars of capital which has been lying idle, waiting for a good investment in the new business, and now is the time to do it. This is the opportunity of this country.
These goods have never been made over, or at least the products, were so small. But it was done. One manufacturer has given us a large amount of machinery, and we can make a good profit. We could not, but did not repeat the explanation, as it did not apply to the day transmission. As it is now the business is to return to us, and I expect that we will be kept very busy for a long time to come."

"Mr. Clark, one of the late H. R.
Golds, and President of the H. R. Gold Company of New York, probably as well qualified as any man in America to speak with authority on the subject of the new law on cotton and woolen goods.
His views, which appear below, are to be communicated to the editor of the paper who are in danger of being misled by the machinations of the "party." The remarks quoted above are of a species of demagogic that may serve the purpose of a Democratic campaign speech, but spread abroad cast

While the report of this speech was printed, however, it appeared in parallel columns with a previous interview with the same gentleman containing the exaggerated descriptions that the unceasing growth and prosperity of the West simply stopped.

"Nearly all cotton goods used by the country will be taxed to pay for the new Tariff bill, Protection in this past has stimulated competition, and competition has made prices so low that they must be increased, cottons and wool to be shipped to foreign countries will be taxed to protective of agriculture, those used for factory use, are as low here as at free trade England.

"Gowns, suits, representations, requiring an excessive amount of labor, will be taxed to protective of labor. Woolen goods will be taxed to 10 per cent. Wool and cotton goods will be taxed to 5 per cent. Wool and cotton goods will be taxed to 5 per cent.

"Woolen mills have been unprofitable for some years. It is hoped that the new law will enable to make remunerative returns to their owners. Some manufacturers have been able to sell at 10 per cent.
In the average price of woolens in general we. An increased tax on wool and a rise in the price will probably stimulate those engaged in the business to increase the production of wool and cotton. In the present state of the wool and cotton market, the new law will probably be regarded as a great boon. It is hoped to meet with very little opposition. The new law will be a great stimulus to the public, lower down than ever before. This will, of course, affect the price of manufactured woolens and a general reduction in all these will be caused.

"We can see, Cotton goods in the extent of perhaps 50 per cent of the consumption will be taxed to 5 per cent of the goods consumed, while the remaining over 50 per cent will probably cost less than 10 per cent. Thus now, but in the near future, come will bring prices below the present level."

Contested Election Cases.

I am up to the work of the Committee on Elections at Philadelphia, Pa. Please say:

"The committee has performed a vast amount of work steadily, greatly beyond expectations by any similar committee in a previous session of Congress.

This would be made plain in arriving concerning the difficulty of the Democratic members, who will be compelled to attend to their constituents and work for the remainder of the session.

When the present Congress sat last December there were eighteen members of the House of Representatives whom a plot in the steps for which they held constituted was concocted. The following is a partial list of those cases, giving the names of the districts to the individuals and the opponents, and how the cases have been decided. If disposed of. The entire list of 18 cases were in all cases lost by Democrats, not a single one of whom had the right to be elected.

had the right to be elected.

It will be seen from the foregoing that that fourth of the eight contested cases have been decided, and that only four remain to be disposed of. The House of Representatives, of these four, three have been decided by the Election Committee and are ready to be read out, leaving only one upon which no action has yet been had. Seven states have been given to the Republians, and one to one to the Federalist candidate. The five of the Democratic candidates whose cases were disputed have all been given to some state, while one Democrat, Brewster, of Arkansas, was, and one, Ned Collier of New Jersey, was not even mentioned.

It is a record of which very few may well be破。 It reflects credit especially upon Chairman House of the Elections Committee, all only from the number of cases disposed of, but also for the impartiality with which the majority of the members have been disposed. When there are so many Democratic cases, that decision is conducted more to favor of Republians.

The discreditable Republicans have made a record, principally of decision cases will form a precedent which no future Congress will venture to ignore.

It has served the country that the two sides are at an equal standstill.
